Section III: Special Education Community Complaint Instructions

For assistance to complete this form, or to request a format that is more accessible to you, please contact the Office of Superintendent of Public Instruction, Special Education Division, at 360-725-6075 or speced@k12.wa.us.

You must send a copy of your complaint to OSPI and the school/agency at the same time. You can find school/agency contact information in the Special Education Directory.

Your complaint must include your signature. A signature is required by the IDEA and Washington special education regulations.

Did this happen within the past year? OSPI may only investigate special education allegations that occurred within one year from the date your complaint is received. For example, if we receive the complaint on October 1, 2021, we can investigate a period starting on October 2, 2020.

Is this related to something other than special education services? If your complaint is related to discrimination or a student's rights under Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act, please contact the Office for Civil Rights at 1-800-421-3481, or OSPI's Equity & Civil Rights Office at 360-725-6162. Questions about professional conduct should be directed to the Office of Professional Practices (OPP) at 360-725-6130.

Accommodations: If you need accommodations to complete this form or to communicate with the dispute resolution team, please contact 360-725-6075 or speced@k12.wa.us.

Information shared during the complaint investigation: Washington special education regulations require OSPI to share any documentation provided by the district with the parent/complainant and any information shared by the parent/complainant with the district as part of the investigation. If the complainant is not the parent/guardian of the student in the complaint, OSPI requires a release of information, signed by the parent, before any personally identifiable information about a student will be shared. For more information on the complaint process, see: Overview of the Complaint Process.

Demographic Data

OSPI strives for inclusion and practices that close opportunity gaps. If you voluntarily provide information about your child's disability condition, the race and ethnicity of your family members, and the gender identity of your student, we will keep your confidential information private and use it only to identify trends in our state. We use this information in aggregate, without linking it to any individual student or family, to continuously improve our guidance for Washington schools and to improve our processes that support the rights of students and families.

OSPI does not, as a matter of course, share information (e.g., emails and special education documents) provided to OSPI during the SECC investigation process with other individuals, entities, or federal or state agencies.

Members of the public may request to access such information under Washington state's Public Records Act, but in the event such a request is made, several "exemptions" exist. In other words, there are several types of information that members of the public will not be able to access. Importantly, the following information will not be provided by OSPI in response to a public records request:

- Information that, alone or in combination, is linked or linkable to a specific student that would allow a reasonable person in the school community, who does not have personal knowledge of the relevant circumstances, to identify the student with reasonable certainty. For example, information about your child's disability or race and ethnicity.
- Personal information for the family members or guardians of a student if the information would result in disclosure of the personal information of the student.
- Emergency contact information of family members or guardians.

Section IV: Allegations – What do you believe the school did wrong?

A. Your Statement of the alleged violation(s):

You do not need to know what law was violated, but you must explain what you believe the school has done wrong, like: "The teachers are not following my child's IEP." Please attach pages if you need more space to write. Also, please note: OSPI can only investigate alleged violations if they happened within the past calendar year.

I believe the school violated special education requirements by:

B. Facts about your allegation:

Please include significant dates and details about what happened.

C. What documents support your allegation?

Letters from the school, the student's evaluation and IEP, notices, and other documents may help show what happened and what you believe the school did wrong. You are encouraged to but are not required to attach relevant documents like the IEP.

D. What would you like to happen?

We want to know what remedy you are asking for if OSPI finds that the school violated a student's rights. For example, you might request additional IEP services or an IEP meeting.
