Student-Teacher Contact Requirements

The Excel High School educational model presents flexible options for school districts, schools, or individual families. Students may choose a self-paced model with minimum teacher communication and feedback, or they may choose an immersive teacher communication model, complete with one-on-one dedicated online tutoring. Excel High School teachers closely track the progress of their students and proactively reach out if a student show signs of struggling. Excel High School also has a team of academic support professionals that are available to assist students with any academic questions that may arise. Excel High School teachers and students have the ability to communicate in many ways, ranging from phone calls, text, email, instant messaging, and chat. Even though Excel High School is an asynchronous learning platform, synchronous components are made available to students who prefer putting a face to a name. No matter the academic needs, Excel High School can accommodate with nationally-accepted, accredited, online courses in any instructional format.
